mywedding.com Ideas and Trends Weekly Giveaway: WaxWorks Photo

by The Scoop of mywedding.com

WaxWorks Photo

WaxWorks uses a mix of beeswax, paint pigment and liquid resin to turn your photos into a masterpiece.

THIS CONTEST HAS ENDED, PLEASE ENTER CURRENT GIVEAWAY!

Finding a stylistic way to show off your wedding photos is always a challenge. Many times you revert back to supersized prints hung up around your house..which of course can look just fine. But, here's a different approach to dressing up your wedding photos. A unique, customized option to bring your wedding photos to life while hung up above your mantel.

About Waxworks Photo

Leah Macdonald is a teacher, professional wedding and portrait photographer and also an artist. During her graduate studies at California College of Arts, she experimented with photography and mixed media. Encaustic painting, a technique that dates back to 800 BC, became her focus throughout her graduate studies.

Now, Leah embellishes portraits with encaustic painting. She mounts the photo on the clients choice of wood, metal or plexi then uses a mix of beeswax, paint pigment and liquid resin to create paintings with a semi-gloss surface.

Her photography and wax pieces are imaginative, moody and provocative. Leah's participation in WaxWorks combines her personal passion for the medium with a desire to share it's beauty. Waxworks has been featured in Rangefinder Magazine, After Capture Magazine and on The Martha Stewart Show and Tyra show, to name a few.

The Prize

The winner will receive a beautiful customized Wax Works Flat Panel - Small \(5x7 - 11x14\)

To Enter, leave a comment telling us...

"What creative photo ideas do you have planned for your special day? Certain poses? or Locations?"

Contest Ends October 14, 2008 at 11:59pm.
