WHAT WE LOVE

First Wives Club
 March 24, 2008
 By: Kristin Munro

By the time a newlywed gal settles into married life, she's got a pile full of rhinestone reminders splashed with "Bride"-this and "Future Mrs."-that taking up precious real estate in her closet. Too bad the world doesn't care that you're still high on exchanging "I do's." Jen Gorman of Wifeville.com does. She was so happy about getting hitched in 2005 that the former U.S. Senate legislative assistant developed a line of clothing and accessories, dubbed Wifeware, with tongue-in-cheek sayings splashed across hoodies, undies and even aprons. Just like this super-soft, rhinestone-free, nearly see-through tee that says "Peace Love Wife." Now that the wedding's over, let your ring be the only thing that sparkles.
